Words we use every day at The Law Connection

COMPLETELY

PUCKAROO

You know how it is, sometimes even the best made plans just don't quite come together. You put your heart and soul and hard earned cash into a business or a partnership or investment, and it all turns to custard. The wheels fall off. It's completely puckaroo. It can be stressful and it can take its toll. At The Law Connection it's something we have seen often and we know from those experiences that some good plain english legal advice can mean the difference between a nightmare and a good night's kip. So next time life dishes you up a curly one that you don't quite feel able to deal with on your own, give us a call at The Law Connection. We're expert at straightening out the curly ones.

UTTER

GOBBLEDYGOOK

Unless otherwise expressly provided, and so as not to impose unreasonable or discriminatory conditions or limitations on the author (heretofore and henceforth referred to as 'the author'), all contractual communications shall be authored in accordance with the author's predilection, which is utter gobbledygook. Or, in other words, most contracts are written in incredibly complex legalese apparently in order to make the author look smarter than you! There will undoubtedly be times in your life when you'll encounter language like this. At The Law Connection, we can help translate the incomprehensible into plain english and ensure you never sign a contract that you don't fully understand... because gobbledygook happens.

Absolute

Oh, how many times we've heard this one! It's a sure thing! A dead cert! An absolute goldmine! And you know what, the minute you hear it, in the back of your mind there is a warning that it's not a goldmine at all. In fact it's more likely to be a bottomless pit that will consume your money and time like nothing you could ever have imagined. At The Law Connection, we can help you understand all of the things that you should examine before you buy or invest and help you uncover all of the information that's important in making your investment decision. So next time someone offers you the deal of a lifetime, give us a call at The Law Connection. We'll help do some digging around.

After emigrating to New Zealand, Steven Tomlinson joined The Law Connection as a Director in 2008. Steven brought with him a comprehensive knowledge of the British legal system & combined with the fact that he maintains valuable professional connections in the UK, he is able to provide a unique advantage for his clients who need to deal with legal matters back in 'Old Blighty'. Steven's 30 years legal experience both here & in the UK includes commercial business, insolvency, litigation, trusts and inheritance. Steven is happy to offer a free no obligation discussion, whether you have interests or problems in Old Blighty or in New Zealand.

Followed closely of course by experienced, knowledgeable, effective, understandable, local and caring. Interestingly, they are words that we like to think sum up the kind of law practice we are, that describe the people who work here and the way we relate to our clients. Wonderfully for us at The Law Connection, we not only found someone sharp, we found someone really Sharp, Rosemary Sharp. Rosemary began her working career as a Registered Nurse which goes some way to explaining her fantastic people skills. Rosemary has been practising law on the Kapiti Coast for 11 years, providing property, commercial and general legal advice to corporate and private clients in the Porirua & Kapiti region. We are absolutely delighted that Rosemary has chosen to join The Law Connection & we are sure you will appreciate her commitment and integrity.
